About the Seminar

India has been a prominent seat of knowledge and wisdom in the past and still it is the third largest higher education system in the world. India has become one of the most populous country of the world with the largest young population. It is imperative to have a robust, updated and World-Class Education System, if India wishes to benefit from this potential 'Demographic Dividend'. In the light of this fact, the launch of National Education Policy 2020 provides the desired impetus to the qualitative change required at all levels of education in the country. Since its inception, constant efforts and measures are being taken for earnest implementation. All the stake holders have been involved right from the stage of its drafting to putting it into practice. The ongoing process requires constant exchange of ideas through various forums. Seminar is a suitable platform for the purpose. The two- day national seminar aims to bring educationists, academicians, research scholars and students of various discipline for a dialogue on various aspects of NEP, 2020.

As per the theme of the present seminar, the domains of sub-themes cover Higher Education of multiple-discipline including Teacher Education. The focus of the discussions would remain on the strategies and challenges that involve implementation of NEP, 2020. India's ambition to develop a futuristic higher education system at par with global standards can be realized only by revamping quality in pedagogical strategies, curriculum design, teaching learning practices and evaluation mechanism. An equitable and inclusive society which progresses with sustainable development, needs a higher education system based on multidisciplinary approach and an outcome based education with special emphasis on education of vocational skills. In the present era of technological advancement, students are also needed to be equipped with 21st century skills and competence. NEP, 2020 also emphasizes on qualitative changes in Teacher Education to lay foundation for these desired changes.
